2020 Annual Report of the Huntington Planning Commission

Huntington, West Virginia

Prepared by:
Mayor's Office of Planning and Development
Breanna Shell, Planning Director
Patricia Usher, Zoning Officer
January 2021

Introduction

In 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic brought a particular set of challenges for the city to transition to a digital, work-from-home format to the extent possible. The Planning Division endeavored to continue to better our administrative processes, strengthen targeted community development efforts, and make progress on the implementation of Plan2025 while creating procedures to foster a safe environment for the public and staff. In addition to our day-to-day permitting process, the Planning Division also oversaw 15 public hearings between the Board of Zoning Appeals and the Planning Commission. The Planning Division has experienced the loss of experience staff and gain of staff throughout the year, and with the most recent loss of the city's Planner, 2021 will bring additional staffing challenges.

Below is a summary of the past years accomplishments in community projects and in attending to the work of the Board of Zoning Appeals and Planning Commission.

Love your Block West Huntington

Love Your Block (LYB) is a series of community projects selected by the residents and business owners in West Huntington. This program provides funding for mini-grant projects and ideas developed by community members to improve their neighborhoods and blocks through low cost, high impact change.

Love Your Block volunteers believe their efforts increase public safety and community ownership of private and public spaces. Past projects include turning vacant lots into public gardens, painting over graffiti with colorful murals, removing trash from playgrounds, and helping neighbors with simple home repairs. Community volunteers are making their neighborhoods better places to live, work, and play.

The Love Your Block program in Huntington, West Virginia began when the city was chosen as one of ten cities awarded $25,000 to be used for funding that supports volunteer-fueled solutions developed by the community for the community. In addition, two AmeriCorps VISTA members serve in each winning city's city hall to build capacity and raise awareness. The program is made possible with support from Cities of Service, Bloomberg Philanthropies, and the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS).

Currently the Love your Block program has been able to continue with support of the City of Huntington and a partnership with the Preservation Alliance of WV and the WV state AmeriCorps program.

Over the last two years the mission of Love Your Block West Huntington has been to provide the community with an opportunity to work with local government and revitalize their neighborhood. LYB has worked to empower residents to make the changes they want in their community. Over the past two years, with residents help LYB has:

- awarded 12 mini-grants (7 small home repairs and 5 neighborhood improvement projects),
- attended 42 meetings, trainings, and events, and
- removed 2,872 pounds of trash.
- There have been a total of 1,838 volunteer hours tracked, translating to an estimated $18,380 in labor!

Fairfield Alliance

The Fairfield Alliance is a collaboration of community stakeholders in the Fairfield neighborhood including AD Lewis Community Center, Cabell Huntington Hospital, the Black Pastors association, Marshall University, Huntington Housing Authority, residents, City of Huntington, Coalfield Development Corporation, Unlimited Future and more. In 2019 one of the main projects of the Fairfield Alliance was creating the Fairfield Innovation Plan which was funded through the HUD Choice Planning grant. This plan was completed in February of 2020. Since that time the Fairfield Alliance also created a new community development corporation and hired an executive director. Although the Alliance took a break during the middle of 2020 due to trying to focus on other projects and capacity to work in an online environment, the Alliance met just recently in January of 2021 and there were lots of projects to report and share.

Hal Greer Boulevard Complete Streets Plan

Towards the end of 2019 the Hal Greer Boulevard Complete Streets Plan was completed, showcasing years of hard work and collaboration to completely redesign Hal Greer Boulevard with safety and functionality at the forefront. With the help of the leadership of the City of Huntington, Marshall University, Cabell Huntington-Hospital and the Neighborhood leadership we were able to get the support of the WV Division of Highways to fast-track the design and construction of Hal Greer Boulevard in line with the Corridor Management Plan. This past year has really accelerated that project and is on track to create final construction level plans for the Fall of 2021 to be able to construct improvements to the route from 3rd Avenue to Washington Boulevard.

Highlawn Brownfields Plan

2017 saw the completion of a robust plan for revitalization of the Highlawn and Marshall University neighborhoods with the final Highlawn Brownfields Plan. This plan highlights research into potential brownfield properties and reuse opportunities including a proposed future land use plan and market study. The Huntington Municipal Development Authority (HMDA) is taking the lead on moving this plan forward and negotiating with existing property owners and finding funding to implement the plan. Work continued on this goal with the HMDA taking ownership over one of the properties and further refining the Highlawn Brownfields Plan as new information came to light. A major change came from the decision of Marshall University to purchase property for the creation of the MU Baseball stadium. As this continues to develop the Planning staff, HMDA, MU and the residents/business owners of Highlawn will continue to work together to improve and implement the plan.

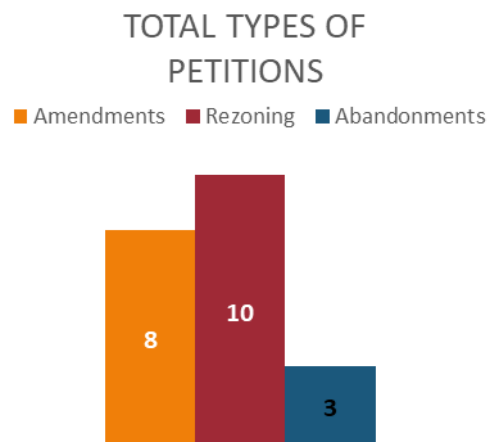

Zoning Ordinance Update

This past year saw major revisions to the Zoning Ordinance and the Zoning Map. In the coming year, the Planning Division looks forward to further strengthening the goals in Plan2025 the Future of Huntington by targeted revisions of the zoning ordinance. This revision will focus on the neighborhoods of Fairfield, West Huntington, and the core of Downtown. The hope is to create a more place-based neighborhood specific code within areas that are seeking economic development opportunities.

Overall, we hope to continue partnerships with other departments and community members to better educate citizenry about the vision behind the regulations and work to be proactive to improve the system to create a stronger City of Huntington.

Planning Commission

In 2020, the Planning Commission heard twenty-one (21) petitions over the course of seven (7) meetings. Of the twenty-one petitions, there were eight (8) Amendments to the Zoning Ordinance, ten (10) Rezoning, and three (3) Abandonments. Of the twenty-one petitions, nineteen (19) were moved forward to Council with favorable recommendations; two (2) were withdrawn.

Amendments to the Zoning Ordinance

There were eight (8) changes to the Zoning Ordinance in 2020. Combined with the seven (7) that were made in 2019, the Zoning Ordinance is well on its way to being a reflection of Plan2025. Considerable changes were made throughout the year to reorganize and clarify regulations in order to produce a document that will improve ease of use and therefore overall customer service.

The biggest change made to the Zoning Ordinance and Zoning Map was the split of the General Industrial District into Light Industrial and Heavy Industrial. This was achieved through large scale rezonings of the industrial areas of the city and the defining of the two new districts, especially in regards to the distribution and regulation of uses and the physical design of new construction.

Other important elements of the Zoning Ordinance changes included:

- A complete restructuring of the permitted and conditional uses into a chart, streamlining the requirements for ease of use for staff and citizens (PC 20-06)
- Improvements to the parking and driveway requirements (PC 20-06)
- Redefining the requirements for home occupations (PC 20-13)
- Strengthening our fair housing regulations (PC 20-14) and
- Improving and clarifying elements of the sign ordinance (PC 20-16)

TOTAL TYPES OF PETITIONS

DECISIONS FOR VARIANCES

DECISIONS FOR SPECIAL PERMITS

This year the BZA membership continued to excel in their roles, taking each petition very seriously. The members exercised their ability to put conditions on their approvals so that the intent of the zoning ordinance was implemented.

Attendance for the BZA was consistent with most members only missing one or two meetings over the course of the year, and the alternates stepping in when needed ensured we had a quorum at all meetings.

Conclusion

Overall, 2020 proved to be another dynamic year in planning in the City of Huntington even under the unusual circumstances brought on by the pandemic. New businesses were started - especially Home Occupations - existing businesses expanded, and the comprehensive plan update was advanced in the creation of several new elements within the zoning ordinance.

The future of Huntington looks bright, and 2021 is sure to be another critical year in continuing the positive momentum as we move forward to update our zoning ordinance in line with Plan2025.
